MEMORIES.

As a perfume doth remain
In the folds where it hath lain,
So the thought of you remaining,
Deeply folded in my brain,
Will not leave me—all things leave me—
You remain.

Other thoughts may come and go,
Other moments I may know,
That shall wait me in their going,
As a breath blown to and fro.
Fragrant memories—fragrant memories
Come and go.

Only thoughts of you remain
In my heart where they have lain,
Perfume thoughts of you remaining,
A bid sweetness in my brain,
Others leave me—all things leave me—
You remain.

—Arthur Symons.

SOME PECULIAR ACCIDENTS.

An Oculist Tells How the Sight of Several Persons Was Destroyed.

A prominent oculist of this city gives the following list of queer accidents that have come under his observation recently:

A little boy, 10 years old, was standing in front of a bird fancier's shop when a sudden gust of wind blew a bird into his eye, pecking out one eye before he could get out of the way.

Some fishermen left a lot of short wire lying on Entorpe street after repairing the telephone connections in that district. An old negro woman who was on her way to market early the next morning stepped on one end of a bit of this wire, when the other end flew up, striking her in the eye and blinding her.

A milkmaid employed at one of the dairy farms near the city was milking a cow that had got her tail matted and tangled with cockleburrs. In the course of the milking the cow switched her tail into the milkmaid's face, the mass of burrs striking him in one eye and completely destroying the sight of it.

A lad shooting at sparrows with an airgun hit his little brother in the eye and blinded him for life.

Tommy Peats, the handsome, bright-eyed 7-year-old son of a widow, fell down stairs backward. When his mother got to him and picked him up, the boy was asleep, the shock having affected him in this singular manner, and in an hour after, when he opened his eyes, they were badly and irrevocably crossed.

A poor lad who is affected with epilepsy during a recent attack fell against the steam coils in his father's office, burning and blistering his eyes so badly that the sight is gone.

As the Louisville and Nashville passenger train was coming into the city some ruthless person threw a stone at the day coach, shattering one of the windows. The particles of glass flew into the face of a man sitting by the window, as many as 40 of them embedding themselves in his eyes alone. Most marvelous to relate, every bit of glass has been abstracted and the man's eyesight remains unimpaired.—New Orleans Letter in Philadelphia Times.

What Shall We Call It?

The boys call it a "bike" and are happy; the dictionary makers call it a "bicycle" and are content, though heaven knows the philologist ought to lie heavily on their literary consciences, and we who ride and are happy and independent call it a "wheel," in spite of the flimsy protest of sundry would-be pedants who fill space in the daily and weekly papers. Pray, why not "wheel?" Do you know of a better name? Surely not "bicycle," for "bicycle," besides being an awkward word, does not describe the instrument of delight we know, as doubtless the originator of the word fully dreamed it did. "Bicycle" has an affected, strained sound that ill accords with the hearty elements of the language we love, the language whose strength lies in its simple, crisp words, pulsating with life and meaning.

It is not unusual to designate a specific thing by a generic term, and we do so violently to the language when we say we ride a wheel. The term came into general use when men did literally ride upon a wheel, in the days of the old "continents." It was a wheel they rode, the second member of the machine trailing behind in almost unnoticed insignificance. It was then that a thousand tongues at once named the wheel. This democratic term of spontaneous birth has had a tedious life and will still live, for it is always the people who make language, not pedants nor dictionary compilers.—Womankind.

Rainbows That Can Change Sex.

In many parts of the world it is the general belief that the rainbow has the power to change sex. This queer belief obtains in such widely separated districts as South Africa and Norway and China and Australia. The Zulus have a long folklore story of the young man who was changed into a wrinkled old woman by touching the many-headed arch. The Scandinavians possess a similar story, and in Greece they say that anybody who runs against the end of the rainbow will have his or her sex instantly changed. In France and India to pass under the rainbow has a similar effect.—St. Louis Republic.

Literary Item.

"They say very few authors sleep more than seven hours a day."
"But think how much slumber they furnish other people!"—Chicago Record.

The Beauty of Health

Features don't matter so much. Most any features will do if the complexion is clear, the eyes bright and the lips rosy. Hearty, healthy wholesomeness is better than mere beauty of features. A face full of the glow of good health—full of the kindness and good humor that health brings, is bound to be an attractive face—a face that will make friends. The face tells the story of the whole body. "Murder will out"—and so will "female weakness" and nervousness and other disorders peculiar to women.

If there is a drain on the system and strength, the record of it will show in the face. If there is nerve nagging, "bearing-down" pains, dragging and pulling at the most sensitive organs in a woman's body, the face will show it. Abused nerves draw lines of care and worry on the face. Nervous prostration writes its warning on the face long before it comes. Sleeplessness, nervousness and debilitating drains make more wrinkles than age.

Nine-tenths of the sickness of women comes from some derangement of organs distinctly feminine. Nine-tenths of this sickness can be cured and avoided by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is nothing miraculous about the "Favorite Prescription"—nothing supernatural.

It is the result of rational thought and study applied to medicine. It has been prescribed by Dr. Pierce for over 30 years. It has made thousands of women healthy and happy, and has brought joy to thousands of homes. In "female weakness" it acts directly and strongly in healing and strengthening the parts that are most severely tried. It clears out impurities and promotes regularity at all times.

MEN AND WOMEN to make big money with the Practical Flating Dynamo. It is the electrical machine used in the great plating factories; $50 to $80 a week made easy. Plates everything; no experience; big profits. Address W. P. Harrison & Co., Clerk No. 14, Columbus, Ohio.

Flower Festivals, Fiestas, Rose Carnivals,

AND THE LIKE, WILL BE THE DE-light of California for the next two or three months.

Santa Barbara Flower Festival, the fame of which is world-wide, and the glory of which, like that of Solomon, is not half told, opens April 15. Queen Flora will reign three days an arbitrary and absolute despot.

La Fiesta de Los Angeles, now fixed in the chronology of California feasts, and not less illustrious than its older prototype, commences April 22, and the riot of fun will spread over four days.

The Carnival of Roses, to take place in San Jose, May 6th to 9th, inclusive, though a more recent candidate for favors of the fun-loving world, yet because of the limitless possibilities of the Garden City for anything that is made of roses is quite as full of promise.

REDUCED RATES

Will be made by the Southern Pacific Company for all these brilliant events. Arrange your programmes accordingly, and call on agents for particulars. April 6

THE MINT CASES.

Two of the men who were paid from the public treasury for performing certain duties in the United States Mint at Carson are now wearing stripes under heavy sentences in the Penitentiary. When the shortage was discovered in the mint and the men since convicted of being responsible for it were accused of stealing the bullion, the cry of persecution was raised at Carson and the horn was echoed by every ring organ in the State. People who wanted the thieves hunted down and punished, were denounced by the ring papers and a combined and determined effort was made to make the public believe that there was no shortage in the mint, and if there was, that it occurred under the administration of Superintendent Adams and Melter and Refiner Harris. When this position was untenable by the discovery that $23,000 in gold bullion 990 fine had been taken by Henry to the Reno Reduction Works prior to the Adams' administration at the mint, a further attempt was made to arouse partisan feelings in favor of the accused. The organ of the Carson gang charged the JOURNAL, and, in fact, all who encouraged the prosecution of the thieves, whoever they might be, with all the crimes in the calendar. The prosecution was pronounced a farce and the Court and its officers ridiculed until forbearance ceased to be a virtue, and the Court interposed its authority to silence the gang and its organ. Now, after two trials of each of the defendants, there is no doubt whatever of their guilt, yet those who attempted to shield the real thieves, though presumably knowing that they were guilty, and openly accused innocent persons of the crime, hold their heads high, though they have escaped the consequences of bribing witnesses only by a technicality.

Much credit is deservedly accorded the counsel for the prosecution in this case. General Clarke was engaged to assist District Attorney Jones early in the proceedings, when it was little less than high treason to allege that there was a shortage in the mint and that a former administration was responsible for that shortage. He faced this prejudice, and though, as Judge Hawley says, even fraud, perjury, bribery and corruption were brought to bear to influence the result, secured the conviction of two of the thieves.

It is greatly to be hoped, in the interest of justice and good government, that if there are others implicated in the mint steal, they will receive their deserts or at least be compelled to publicly interpose the statute of limitations as a barrier to the penitentiary. The public have a right to know how so many bags of standard dollars, which experts say were never in circulation, found their way from the mint to the State Treasury. Were those dollars coined surreptitiously? If not, to whom and for what purpose were they paid by the mint authorities at a time in 1893 when the Secretary of the Treasury in answer to demands for standard dollars publicly announced that there were no free dollars in the vaults of the mints or the United States treasury.

THE FIELD AGAINST MCKINLEY

In the contest for the Republican nomination for President, McKinley is far in the lead, but it is claimed by the opposition that he will not have a majority in the convention. The Allison, Reed, Morton, Quay and Cullum managers say their candidates have not the slightest idea of withdrawing. They claim that McKinley will fall from eighty to one hundred short of a majority, and that the combined opposition will have from 525 to 550 votes.

Mr. Clarkson, who is managing Allison's fight, is a member of the National Committee from Iowa. He says that by the rules of the party, all contests will first be heard by the National Committee, which makes up a temporary roll of the National Convention. Each State in the temporary convention elects a member of the Committee on Credentials and contestants are heard again before that committee. The Convention will also hear contests through the report of the Committee on Credentials, so there will be three careful examinations of all contestants. Four-fifths of the contests are represented by McKinley men, who bolted from the regular State or district conventions. The convention will be a very serious affair, and Mr. Clarkson thinks will result in showing the sober judgment of the majority to be for some other candidate than McKinley, from party interests.

If McKinley is the choice of the Republican National Convention, it will show that the party is disposed to make the tariff question the principal issue of the campaign, as it was in 1892. Then the tariff law, known as the McKinley bill, was in force and a majority of the people declared in favor of changing it. Now the people know that the restoration of the McKinley tariff would not restore prosperity to the country, and to make the fight on that single issue, as the gold men of both the old parties desire to do, would, with the present feeling on the financial question, be inviting defeat. Mr. Clarkson, who is a shrewd politician, understands that, and relies upon the political sagacity of the leaders of the Republican National Convention to retire McKinley and place some less pronounced advocate of excessive taxation at the head of the ticket.

If the Silver men are disposed to bolt the National Convention, the McKinley men, who bolted many State and district conventions in which they were in a minority, have set them an example which they cannot be blamed for following.

A CANDID ADMISSION.

It has been apparent for some time to the most casual observer that the gold men of the two old parties were ready at all times to assist each other. Our talk-silver-but-vote-gold friends here in Nevada, would not, however, admit the close communion existing between them and the Administration Democrats. Now, for some cause, our evening contemporary is less secretive. It may be that the visit of its editor to the orange groves of California has made him more communicative. At any rate he says that the Republicans were ready to assist the Democratic Administration to secure funds to meet the current expenditures of the Government.

Of course the gold men of both parties have always shown a willingness to help each other. They proved that when they repealed the Sherman Act of 1890 at the instance of Mr. Cleveland. They gave further proof of it when they sustained Mr. Cleveland's veto of the Bland bill to coin the seigniorage, and now Mr. Reed's Congress furnishes further evidence of its disposition to help Mr. Cleveland by passing the Bond bill. Why, there never has been any doubt of the disposition of the Wall street twins to help each other, but why does the Gazette admit now what it has heretofore denied?

Congressional Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—When the Senate met to-day, Call of Florida introduced a resolution requesting the President to protest against the execution of American citizens taken aboard the schooner Compador by the Spanish gun boat, and now in prisons, and that they be not subjected to cruel treatment. Call asked the immediate adoption of the resolution and on a viva voce vote it was adopted.

Wolcott of Colorado quickly interposed, pointing out that this was a surprising course, directing the President and a demand on Spain without any consideration. The resolution went over.

By a vote of 81 to 141 the House refused to agree to Sayer's motion to concur in the Senate amendment to the naval bill reducing the number of battleships from four to two.

Killed by Horse Bites.

CORTLAND, N. Y., May 5.—Robert J. Bamed of Marathon, this county, was attacked on Sunday afternoon by a vicious horse while he was in the stall harnessing the animal. The horse bit him in the back, shoulder and neck. Neighbors hearing Bamed's cries went to his assistance and rescued him, but not before he had been fatally bitten. He died at 8 o'clock last evening.

An Editor Dead.

SACRAMENTO, May 5.—Thad J. McFarland, editor of the Folsom Telegraph, died in Folsom at 11 o'clock last night after an extended illness. Deceased was a prominent member of the order Native Sons. He was 31 years of age and leaves a wife and two children.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

John Howard, convicted of murdering an Italian in June, 1894, has been sentenced by Judge Gray at Visalia to be hanged at Folsom July 17th.

A five-story building on Walnut street, Cincinnati, was blown to the ground by an explosion of gasoline. The shock was felt all over the city and not one brick was left upon another in the front and rear walls of the building. Many persons were killed in the building. The cause of the explosion was that saloons had put in plants for incandescent lights and had a gasoline engine to run the dynamo.

A coal train was derailed by a broken rail on the Baltimore & Ohio road at New Haven, Ohio. The cars piled upon the engine and six tramps were buried under the wreck.

The South African Parliament opened at Pretoria yesterday. President Kruger, in an address, said that in spite of past troubles the Republic maintained friendly relations with foreign powers, and he expressed the hope that a closer union will be effected between the Orange Free State and the South African Republic.

Colonel Worth, the nitrate king, became unconscious while presiding at a meeting of the Nitrate Company, in London, and died in a short time of what is believed to be heart disease. The death caused great excitement in financial circles.

Two explosions of a gasoline stove in a Brooklyn tenement house, resulted in the death of two women and two children.

The street car men's strike in Milwaukee is still on. The electrical workers in the employ of the roads have joined the strikers. A car was stowed by the strikers and obstructions have been placed on the tracks.

The Republican State Convention was called to order by Chairman Cornwall of the State Central Committee. E. Arthur of Pasadena was elected temporary Chairman. There was a fight over seating contested delegations. The Southern delegates want two delegates at large and the North is not disposed to acquiesce. The committees were not ready to report and the delegates will probably be chosen to-day.

THE RAILROAD TAX SUIT.

The Defense Introduces Evidence to Show the Value of the Road.

In the tax suit of the State vs. the Virginia & Truckee Railroad Company, now on trial in the District Court, several witnesses were placed on the stand by the defendant yesterday. D. A. Bender, General Passenger and Freight Agent of the company, testified as to the earnings of the road. Paymaster Mills and Supply Agent Hume Yerington were also on the stand. Ed. Yerington, secretary of the company, testified as to the business of the company. Chief Engineer Kirk testified relative to the cost of the new steel bridge over the Truckee at Reno. E. Black Ryan of the Southern Pacific gave expert testimony as to the value of the V. & T. road. J. M. Fulton, Master of Transportation on the N.-C.-O. road, also testified as an expert. F. S. Edinger, Superintendent of Bridges on the Southern Pacific, gave his opinion as to the value of the steel bridge. M. Scheeline of the Bank of Nevada and C. T. Bender of the Washoe County Bank were examined relative to the correct rate of interest on money in Nevada.

Mr. Summerfield stated that a subpoena had been served on Ed. Yerington, Secretary of the V. & T., to appear in Court this morning with the books of the company. Mr. Deal said that Mr. Yerington was here as a witness for the defendant, and that he could not go to Virginia City and return with the books this morning.

Court adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

Condensed Testimony.

Chas. B. Hood, Broker and Manufacturer Agent, Columbus, Ohio, certifies that Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal as a cough remedy. J. D. Brown, proprietor of St. James Hotel, Fort Wayne, Ind., testifies that he was cured of a cough of two years standing, caused by La Grippe, by Dr. King's New Discovery. B. F. Merrill, Baldwinville, Mass., says that he has used and recommended it and never knew it to fail, and would rather have it than any doctor, because it always cures. Mrs. Hemming, 222 E. 25th street, Chicago, always keeps it at hand and has no fear of croup because it instantly relieves. Free trial bottles at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

Honor Roll Omitted.

The honor roll of Miss Mary Henry's class was inadvertently omitted in the school report in yesterday morning's JOURNAL. The little ones are doing excellent work and should be encouraged by publishing their names.

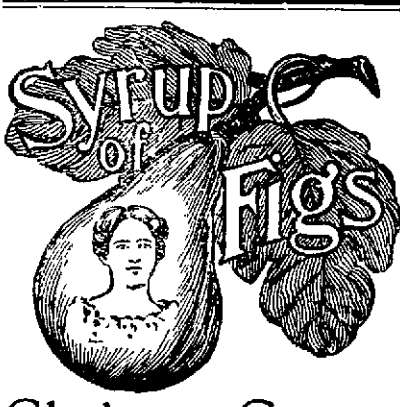

Receiving and First Grade—Susie Ward, Fanny Kelly, Ethel Wily, Ada Blum, Alice Genesey, Clara Mitchell, Margaret Garges, Gladys Rosenthal, Jack Post, Laune Curtis, Peter Saturno, Lewis Brown, Clarence Smith.

Democratic County Committee.

There will be a meeting of the Democratic County Central Committee of Washoe county at C. A. Jones' law office in Reno, on Saturday, May 9, 1896, at 7-30 p. m. A full attendance is requested. S. S. SEARS, mltid Chairman.

A. Nelson.

Jobber in cigars and tobacco, also carries a full line of gents' furnishing goods, which he offers for sale at cost price, as he wants to make room for a new stock. Free employment rooms connected with his store.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

SAN JOSE SCALE.

Energetic Measures Should be Adopted to Destroy It.

For about two years I have heard reports of the San Jose scale being present at Reno, and a bulletin issued a short time ago by Professor Hillman called attention to the fact that it was there and widely distributed, also that he was experimenting with insecticides on some trees that were infested with this scale, and we soon hope to hear the result of his experiments. A few days ago I examined some of the fruit trees at Reno and found some of them very badly infested, and others in adjoining gardens with a few scales on them, showing that the pest is spreading.

The superiority of all the deciduous fruits of this part of Nevada is already recognized and attested, and with proper care and attention this industry may become very important, therefore I think it incumbent on every person interested in fruit culture to use energetic means to stop the ravages, and if possible to eradicate this pest. Now, as this scale is new in Nevada and as well as I can learn only found near Reno, a short description of its appearance, habits and best known means for its destruction as culled from the reports of the latest and best experiments with this scale may be found useful.

Of these reports I would refer to "Insect Life," vol. 7, No. 4, for 1895, published by the Agricultural Department, Division of Entomology. This publication, by the way, has been stopped by our present Secretary of Agriculture, one more of his wise acts.

The aspidiotus perniciosus, or San Jose scale, when occurring in a single specimen on apple bark, is a grayish yellow speck, about the size of a small pin head, somewhat rough, and on young smooth bark there is always a red circle around the scale. When the tree is badly infested the scales overlap. Then the tree presents a rough, scurfy, grayish appearance, and when scraped a yellowish oily substance appears from the destruction of the insects. This insect is voracious, that is, gives birth to living young and does not lay eggs. In climates similar to ours the breeding season would be about two months, commencing some time in May, and the larvae are produced continuously. Three days after birth they cover themselves with a secretion forming the scale. As these insects only crawl a short distance before forming the scale, they do not spread very rapidly, but may be carried by the wind and objects which have been in contact with them, and especially by birds.

In experimenting with insecticides it was found to be useless to attempt to kill these insects by spraying in summer, as any material that would kill them would injure the tree; besides, it is almost impossible to saturate every part of a tree when in full leaf. It was found, however, that one winter spraying with either of the following mixtures was entirely effective in killing all the scales:

First, from one to three pounds of whale oil soap to one gallon of water. Second, the so-called California resin wash of six times the summer strength, as follows: Resin, 120 pounds; caustic soda, 20 pounds; fish oil, 10 pounds; water sufficient to make 100 gallons. Both these washes are expensive, but not so much as the fumigation process.

These spraying applications should be made as soon as the leaves fall, as at that time the insects will be found more susceptible than later in the season.

From the best information obtainable I believe that when a tree is badly infested, or when only a few trees in an orchard are affected, the best plan is to cut them out and burn them. This scale will attack all deciduous fruits, both tree and fruit, also currants and raspberries.

ROSS LEWERS.

RACE HORSE TALK.

Lem Allen of Churchill and Dan O'Keefe, both race horse men, had a lively talk in the Palace Hotel yesterday afternoon on the merits of their respective flyers, Grover C. and Drummer. Dan offered to make a race to take place in two weeks for $500, but Lem wanted to wait until the Fourth of July or Fair week and then go Dan for the money, but Dan bluffed him on a two weeks proposition and gave as his reason for trying the merits of the two runners at that time, that he wanted to take Drummer to the Bay District races and did not care to bring him back here for the trial. Lem did not care to accept this arrangement and the proposed sport ended in considerable talk and no race.

BANK OF NEVADA MEETING.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Nevada was held yesterday. Out of the 3,600 shares of stock 2,775 were represented. A dividend of six per cent was declared payable immediately, and $10,000 was carried to the surplus.

The following directors were elected for the ensuing year: Daniel Meyer, A. G. Fletcher, J. N. Evans, R. B. Bigelow, P. L. Flaunigan, Moritz Schneelue and G. F. Turrin. The Board of Directors elected G. F. Turrin, President; M. Schneelue, Vice President, and R. B. Osburn, Cashier.

Domestic Legislation.

The opponents of Woman Suffrage often refer to legislation as if it dealt only with vast schemes of war, commerce and finance. They talk as if no topic of less magnitude than bimetalism, the gold standard, free trade, or protective tariff were ever broached in Assembly chambers. In truth, questions relating to finance, commerce and war engage but a fractional part of the time of our legislators, and high-sounding phrases should not be allowed to disguise the meaning; to the home, of even these subjects.

All legislatures spend much time in regulating tax rates and making laws relating to descent, guardians, marriage, divorce, wills, public schools, public libraries, public assessments, benevolent institutions, reform schools, truants, criminal children, pauper women, minors, adulterated foods, city sanitation, orphans, deserted and dependent infants, insane and feeble-minded women and public morals.

Are women less directly concerned than men in any of these subjects? A continually increasing number of women hold property, and, therefore, have occasion to pay taxes and make wills. Half the pupils in the public schools are girls, and more than half the teachers are women. Girls as numerous as boys, women more numerous than men, patronize public libraries. In larger number than men, women serve the public as entertainers. The women who are actively engaged in studying the conditions of the poor and unfortunate, and in organizing systematic effort to ameliorate these conditions are to the men engaged as ten to one. All legislation affecting childhood, all institutions for the criminal and poor, most interest women as directly as men. Who, if not women, are concerned in all legislation about food and sanitation? The vast amount of legislation on these subjects is a confession by the Government that its final cause is the home, and it reveals the extent to which legislation lends itself to securing public conditions which will best conserve the interests of private life.

As a further result of this neglect of legislation, the function of women in the State is becoming apparent. The lesson of centuries has not been lost upon women. They have been taught that they are the guardians of the home interests. If this be true, is it not logically certain in a State whose object is to serve and conserve the home, that the guardians of the home are the proper critics, judges and directors of the State, at least in so far as the State deals with domestic questions? Women to-day are crippled in the performance of purely domestic duties by their exclusion from direct participation in legislation; crippled exactly as miners, weavers, machinists, farmers, lumbermen and merchants of the male sex would be, were these classes disfranchised.

Commissioner Westfall of Humboldt is in town. He says water is scarce at Lovelocks, though there is considerable water in the upper Humboldt. The owners of natural meadow lands up the river convert the meadows into lakes by directing the water from its natural channel. The continued cool and stormy weather is stopping that business and they expect more water at Lovelocks in June than there was in April.

Jim Carrol, the popular driver at the engine house, has made up his mind to master the bike, so he gets out on Plaza street nearly every day and he and the bike have a dispute lasting for several minutes at each meeting. A passer-by heard Jim tell the bike day before yesterday that it was a dead-blasted coyote, but the wheel did not pay the slightest attention to the remark. The latest feat he tried was to ride the wheel down the hose-rack, and he came very near tearing out the side of the building.

There are diners and diners in this city of contrasts. Some men here find it a difficult thing to get a satisfactory dinner for $25, others get along nicely on a substantial meal that costs a dime or less. And there is at least one strange little restaurant where a full repast can be purchased for 1 cent. It is with-out doubt the cheapest eating house in the world. This cheapest dining room of all is huddled down in a corner almost touching the famous Mainers' temple of Oliver street, a block away from Clatsam square, where streams of people from all the four corners of town pass and repass. It is little more than a wooden hut, some 18 feet long and perhaps 7 feet high, with a little addition tacked on to it, which serves as a kitchen. It is a small place, but it is a place where 1,000 people in a day, 20 in a minute, can come to get a meal. It is a place where men who have fallen sick, and men who have fallen into the ways of sin, come daily, sometimes twice a day, with the last copper in their pockets, to drink coffee, to eat the bread and eat the pea soup that constitute the bill of fare of this lowest of eating houses. It is a strange congregation truly that one sees within its narrow four walls—a congregation of faces stamped with vice and debauchery, of patched and rusty garments and unwashed bodies. Women occasionally come to this penny dining room, but as the proprietor does not care for their custom, they do not annoy him.

You ask, What can a copper buy? Well, incredible as it may seem in these days of lavish expenditure, three coppers expended at this tiny restaurant will buy a bowl of coffee, a bowl of pea soup and four slices of bread. A bowl of coffee and a slice of bread, the slice cut generous, costs but a cent. For a cent, too, a large bowl of soup is served, with another slice of bread. A cent more will buy two additional pieces of bread. The bowl of soup is a full quart, the bowl of coffee a pint.

If a man wants to eat more than this at one time, the little proprietor says, "he must go to a glutton." At all events, no glutton should starve with one of these 3-cent dinners. It is a place where a man can get a meal for 3 cents, and the coffee is cheap, the bread is good, and the pea soup is a good thing. It is a place where a man can get a meal for 3 cents, and the coffee is cheap, the bread is good, and the pea soup is a good thing.

NO LONGER TIED ON

The first thing that strikes you when you enter the little restaurant is the smell of coffee. It is a strong, rich, and comforting smell. It is a smell that is not found in many other places. It is a smell that is a part of the life of the restaurant. It is a smell that is a part of the life of the restaurant.

This woman discovered that dress-making system and began to wear the dress of womanhood. She forthwith recognized that the dress had not been useful except for "dirt draping," because of the number and variety of it as applied to any and every figure. Some women with a 24 inch waist had a 41 inch bust measure and a length of side seams out of all proportion. Other little women were short waisted and broad backed. Still others were higher in one shoulder than the other and had one countable hill and hollow in their anatomy. It was manifestly impossible that a conventional machine by figures should be able to assume all the shapes of all the women. No, each woman must have a mold of her own, and an exact mold, over which bodies could be as perfectly fitted as on the flesh and blood woman.

The invention consists of an artistic and perfectly fitted waist lining of canvas, strong, but flexible, and shaped to every line of the body. Into this lining is put a cunning device which expands it into the exact shape it was taken upon the woman, just as rigid, it is as solid, as if there was the real anatomy made of it, a true reproduction of the figure—James Miller Monthly.

Disappointment.

A Washington paper says that a young lady of the Capital City met a gentleman from a far western state at a party in Washington. "You are not from the far west, is it?" she said doubtfully.

"Yes, I have lived there all my life."

"Oh, I'm so glad to meet you!"

"But—excuse me—yes, see, I've read all the western stories, and it seems to me that you've forgotten something."

"Nothing that I can call to mind."

"Why, you don't say 'thar' and 'look hyar,' stranger, and use all sorts of bad grammar, and wear a pistol so that it bulges out your coat."

"I have never done those things."

"Oh, dear! Then my idol is shattered!"

Wrong Allegations.

The vicar of a parish not many miles from a well known fashionable town was recently preaching a charity sermon, and in the course of his remarks he rebuked some of his parishioners who he thought stimulated distress for the sake of obtaining assistance they did not really require.

As an illustration of this weakness he mentioned that during one of his pastoral visits he entered a cottage of one of the supposed delinquents, where he found everything neat and clean, and what was more, a large plate of buttered toast before the fire.

"Yes," he repeated emphatically, "buttered toast! Did that," he asked, "look like want?"

In the brief pause that followed this outburst of energy a voice indignantly responded, "No, 'twere't butter neither, 'twere drippin'."

The effect of this correction upon pastor and flock was simply indescribable.—Pearson's Weekly.

Americans Via London.

The English sometimes grow sarcastic at our expense. The London News vouches for the following "Scene, Rome, Rome, a few days ago. Young English lady wandering near the Coliseum. To her approaches a group of American young ladies. One of them says to her, 'Would you kindly tell me whether that is the arch of Titus?' My backslider is 2 years old." The News humorously remarks that the American ladies "were probably from Chicago."

The New Reporter.

"Did you report that suicide as I told you to do last night?" asked the editor of the new reporter, a graduate of a school of journalism.

"I saw the corpse, sir, but found it impossible to write a description of the affair."

"Why?"

"How in the world was I to state the man's throat was cut from ear to ear when he had only one ear?"—London News.

For your Protection.—Catarrh "Cure" or Tonic for Catarrh in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain either Mercury or Iodine of Potassa, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by sudden change to cold or damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat. Cold in the head causes excessive flow of mucus, and, if repeatedly neglected, the results of catarrh will follow: severe pain in the head, a roaring sound in the ears, bad breath, and sometimes an offensive discharge. The remedy should be quick to allay inflammation and heal the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug. Price, 50 cents.
